

The Tumbleweed

LCHS Christmas Party by Andy Curl

On the last day of school before Christmas break (Dec 19), our school's student council put together a Christmas party for the students. This year we were able to have a full day party. The day started off with Nathan going over the schedule for the day so that people would know what's going on. After that, the students were split into 4 separate teams that would compete for a prize. The first events were a volleyball tournament and a gingerbread house competition. While 2 teams played Volleyball in the gym, the other 2 would try to build the best gingerbread house that they could. These 2 activities were very fun to participate in as a team and were a nice addition to our school's usual Christmas parties in previous years. Once the winning team was decided (Hannah, Ashton, Prestyn, Lauren, Samantha) the rules for the gift exchange were stated and everyone got ready to pick their gifts. For my gift, I received sparkling cider and a Starbucks gift card, which I really enjoyed. Once everyone had received their gifts, lunch started, which was accompanied by some card games. After lunch, students could choose what activities they wanted to do. Upstairs, the movie Klaus was played while in the rest of the school, a game of real life year's Christmas party turned out great and was a wonderful way to talk with other students that you maybe aren't usually able to talk to. It also gave a nice send-off into the new year ahead.

Inside this issue:

Christmas Party	1
Sports	2-4
Fun Activities	4-5

